Itinerary

- 14 April Meet in the evening at hotel in San Diego, get-acquainted dinner.
- 15 April Bird San Dieguito Regional Park at Lake Hodges; J Street Marina, West San Diego Bay; San Diego River mouth. Highlights included fine looks at California Gnatcatcher, followed by a downpour, displaying Western and Clark's Grebes, a Peregrine Falcon's persistent attacks on an American Avocet close by, and a raucous flock of Elegant Terns.
- 16 April Drive to Kitchen Creek Road east of San Diego, then through the Laguna mountains—the higher reaches under two inches of fresh snow at roadside—to lunch at Julian. Migrant western warblers at eye-level outside the Julian sandwich shop gave us an amazing, and unexpected, multi-species show next to the sidewalk. Lake Henshaw's nesting Bald Eagles put on a show impossible in Southern California twenty years ago. Tamarisk Grove Campground in the Anza-Borrego desert had a few migrants; we then drove to our hotel in Brawley south of the Salton Sea. Unseasonably cold today!
- 17 April Birding for the day in the vicinity of the south end of the Salton Sea. Both Ramer and Finney Lakes had comparatively few birds this morning in optimum birding weather—unusually cool, if clear and still. An uncooperative Crissal Thrasher gave some of us a glimpse—the only one we saw. A responsive Black-tailed Gnatcatcher, however, displayed memorably nearby. Three species of dove presented themselves nicely near Calipatria while a fourth, a male Ruddy Ground-Dove, called relentlessly deep within an impenetrable eucalyptus tree. Two first year Yellow-footed Gulls flew by at Obsidian Butte in the Salton Sea's southeast corner while Lesser Nighthawks displayed audibly over the butte behind us. Late afternoon birding in Cattle Call Park in Brawley ended the day nicely with a variety of western migrants.
- 18 April Travel to Maricopa with quick morning birding in Brawley followed by stops at Salton City, Covington Park and Big Morongo Preserve. Migrant numbers were modest in the Morongo Valley, but produced good looks at a roosting Barn Owl, two species of empids, a Plumbeous Vireo, and Lawrence's Goldfinch. Late afternoon birding near Maricopa produced LeConte's Thrasher and Sage Sparrow in wonderful light. High winds below mountains today!
- 19 April Birding along Cerro Noroeste road, Mil Potrero Campground, and the Mount Pinos region. On returning along the Cerro Noroeste ridge we found three California Condors on a hill a mile distant, surrounded by relatively diminutive ravens, feasting on a carcass—amazing. We then traveled through the Cuyama Valley where we found a few thousand Tri-colored Blackbirds at a dairy. Evening at our cliff-top hotel at Shell Beach in San Luis Obispo County.
- 20 April Morning birding in drizzle in Shell Beach near the hotel—where we were treated to a hunting Peregrine Falcon above the cliffs. Birding at Oceano Campground produced a nice selection of western migrants, lingering Cackling and Ross's geese, and a fantastic female Allen's Hummingbird actively nest-building near the trail. A stop at Los Alamos County Park in Santa Barbara County gave us close-up Yellow-billed Magpies for all to admire at leisure beneath old Valley Oaks. Stopping at an overlook alongside Hwy. 101 gave us excellent 'scope looks at migrating Pacific Loons moving up the Santa Barbara Channel.

21 April Our boat trip across the SB Channel on choppy seas with an off-shore breeze was marginally productive. Only a few Sooty Shearwaters coursed over the channel, a lone Common Murre flew by, and many Pacific Loons went by up-coast. We found Santa Cruz Island in post card-perfect conditions between two days of rain. Although western migrants weren't found on the island, the Island Scrub Jay gave us its total attention after an initial hour of hide-and-seek. The return trip to Ventura Marina brought few pelagic birds, but these included knockout looks at a pair of cooperative (they didn't fly off) Xantus's Murrelets in mid-channel.

22 April Departure for home—after 1239 miles tour driving distance (plus boat!)
